

LUKE'S LONG ARM STOPS SHERIDAN

Actor Arrested in San Francisco After Eluding Clutches in Salt Lake City.

NO ESCAPE THIS TIME

LUKE'S CORRESPONDENTS INSTRUCTED TO MAKE SURE.

Frank Sheridan, according to reports received in this city yesterday, has been roped and thrown in San Francisco, and, if the instructions of officials of the Merchants' Protective association in this city to their correspondents in San Francisco were fully carried out, the talented actor has not only been placed under arrest, but he has been manacled, handcuffed, placed in an interior cell behind double barred doors and further restrained with an iron boot. If all this is so, it is safe to believe that Frank Sheridan right about now is wishing that he had the talents of the great McEwen, in preference to his job as actor in Miss Lillian Russell's company at $200 per week.

The notification of his arrest in San Francisco was received yesterday by Francis G. Luke, and Francis G. Luke rubbed his palms against each other in ecstasy when he got the news. He had his brother, James A. Luke, had not gotten over the chagrin of their defeat when Sheridan, a week ago, slipped away from them and the deputy sheriff here, after they had him under arrest, and made good his escape. The particulars were published then. He was arrested here on a charge of being an absconding debtor, the proceedings resulting from constant efforts on the part of the Luke brothers to collect from the actor $1,000 for which Oscar F. Peterson secured a judgment against him eleven years ago. The debt was for money loaned to Sheridan when he had an amusement feature at the Salt Lake resort. It will be remembered that James Luke and the deputy sheriff chased Sheridan as far as Ogden, where they lost all trace of him. It is not yet known whether he left Ogden, "made up" as a back comb in Miss Lillian's hair, or whether he rejoined her company elsewhere.

Take No Chances.

Mr. Luke stated last evening that he made arrangements to have Sheridan arrested if he showed up with the Russell company in San Francisco, and had also made the arrangement to furnish any bonds required to hold him. "I wired our correspondents there to take no chances with Sheridan if they got him—to be sure and put him in irons so he couldn't get away. I told them just how slick he was."

"Well, now that you've got him—what?" was asked.

"Well, I don't know just which complaint they have against him, but there it's either absconding debtor, perjury or some kind of contempt of court. You see, when he had him here we had him charged as an absconding debtor. If he didn't shell out and pay up on that, we were going to charge him with perjury in making false statements under oath regarding his salary and income and property."

"He's in San Francisco in the district court there tomorrow. I think he'll pay all right now—anyway, something on the account."

But nevertheless Mr. Luke lost something of his confident air when it was suggested that Sheridan might suddenly, before being arraigned, make up in the character of a receipt in full from Mr. Peterson.

"By George, that's right!" exclaimed Mr. Luke. "I hope he doesn't think of that. He's smooth enough to do it."

YOUTH IS ACCUSED BY HIS OWN BROTHER

Dean Sigburn, a youth of 20 years, is held in the city on a request of his own brother, and under the charge of petty larceny. Young Sigburn was picked up on East First street yesterday by Special Officer C. Riley, after he had been detected trying to sell a scarf pin. When taken to the station, he was told that the pin had been given to him by his brother, and gave the brother's address. When the brother was called up by telephone and made acquainted with the young man's predicament he advised the police to hold him, as he had stolen the pin.

Disposition of young Sigburn's case will be made today when the brother consents with the department.

CHALLENGES ALL SOCIALISTS.

John R. Barnhill, candidate for congress from Illinois last year, is in Salt Lake with challenges for debates on the subject of "Socialism." Local adherents of the sect have been busy in taking up the challenges, and two debates have been arranged between the easterner and W. S. Dalton and Murray King. The time and place of the meetings will be announced tomorrow.

Mr. Barnhill has participated in a series of Chautauqua debates with the late Father McGrady, and a second series with Walter Thomas Mills as his antagonist. The latter series is to be repeated before the Chautauqua this summer.

CITY COUNCIL TEXT LINE

Measure Designed to Regulate Saloons Will Come Up This Evening.

The city council will now emulate the action of the late lamented legislature and squabble for a time over regulation of the liquor traffic. The saloon ordinance introduced first last fall and put off from time to time in the state to come up again this evening. Action has hitherto been postponed because of the uncertainty as to what the legislature would do.

Nobody is willing to father the measure in its present form. Martin, who first introduced it, is now opposed to it, and at one time moved to strike out the enacting clause. Stewart has been for and against it at different times. Fernstrom seems to be the only one of the councilmen who has a good word to say for it, and he only favors it because it is a step toward that prohibition which is dear to his soul.

Though nearly seven months of the year have passed, the appropriations for the various departments have not yet been made. The budget has been gone over from time to time, chiefly because most of the councilmen feared they would be troubled with any of the items to be discussed and nobody wanted to start anything. Black and Wood do not sign it for some weeks, in the hope that the budget will be reduced to the point of no return. The budget is a state of affairs which may tend to aggravate public prejudice against railroads, and urges the business men of the country to favor freight rates as will insure the railroads adequate revenues for maintaining the equipment and roadbed and handling the traffic.

FATIGUE UNIFORMS FOR MEMBERS OF CHAIN GANG

The work of fitting and furnishing the present long-term prisoners in the city jail with their "working suits" was completed yesterday, and the roll call last night showed twenty garbed in the brown khaki trousers and shirts.

The furnishing of working suits to the prisoners is one of Chief Barlow's latest innovations. It originated in the fact that men sentenced to long terms, such as six months or a year, had to wear their own clothes, and as a result of working on the roads, "under" their own clothes, they were going to charge him with perjury in making false statements under oath regarding his salary and income and property.

MR. MILLIN CALLS BILL A HOWLING MONSTROSITY

"What do I think of the liquor bill?" mused Representative Hugh McMillin, yesterday, when asked concerning his opinion of the measure. "Well, this is Sunday, so I will not say it is a howling monstrosity that should never have passed either the house or senate. I will only say that it is a howling monstrosity that should never have passed either the house or senate. I will only say that it is a howling monstrosity that should never have passed either the house or senate."

Mr. McMillin, a well known priest of the Catholic church, and his reply was "I'll give it two kicks and I'll give it the other four. The sentiment of every one interested in the liquor traffic is against such an abortive measure."

He does not know whether or not Governor Spry will sign the bill, but he does know that he might as well have himself yesterday. When the brother was called up by telephone and made acquainted with the young man's predicament he advised the police to hold him, as he had stolen the pin.

Highly Colored View of Liquor Measure

An amusing scene took place just outside the Knutsford hotel yesterday afternoon during the sidewalk show. A colored Milwaukee bellowed out a more or less unsteady position under the porte cochere, and held forth thusly to several traveling men who were standing about:

"Lawd! Lawd! Ain't we got enough trouble here in little ole Salt Lake without mah mighty fine jag gettin' all wet? Ain't we jess got a few month days to get picked up respectable cultur' folks ought ter?"

"Mah goodness! an' jess think of me last Wednesday night, down on mah poah ole rheumatic bones, raisin' mah voice in thanks foh all de mighty fine things that kine happen to one nough nigger. Der Ah was down on mah knees and outollerin' a ha'r, an' see what Ah got foh hit."

"Well, uncle," said one of the drummers, "it appears to me that you have a pretty handy package right now."

"Yassah, yassah," answered the darker with a grin. "Ah saah have got some, an' jess a trifle to spare, but you'll know Ah wouldn't be as happy as I am if I an' mah good friend Mr. Joseph Cannon hadn't been celebratin' the legislature passin' dat liquor bill. Don't you tell Joe Ah snatched on him, will you?"

And the old darker staggered away, chuckling. "Guess Ah belong in a black-smith shop wif mah little ole hammah. Joe Cannon and me! Whee!"

TIDE IS TURNING AGAINST MOVEMENT TO PUT LEGAL CRIMP IN THE RAILROADS

For the purpose of showing evidence to support the claims of the railroads that public sentiment is rapidly changing and that the end is in sight for drastic measures restricting the railroads of the country, which the railroads assert has put a decided crimp in the advancement of railway building and development, has circulated the borrowing, purchasing and employing power of the roads and shut off their abilities for making expenditures of benefit to all lines of manufacture and trade. The Railway Business association has issued a pamphlet containing copies of scores of resolutions adopted by various commercial organizations. These resolutions, one and all, urge conservation in the further restrictions to be placed upon railroad companies. The pamphlet contains resolutions adopted by the following:

Illinois Manufacturers' association, Nov. 24, 1908; Southern Commercial congress, Dec. 8, 1908; Board of Trade and Transportation, City of New York, Dec. 3, 1908; Merchants' Association of New York, Dec. 2, 1908; Jacksonville Board of Trade, January, 1909; Clarksburg Board of Trade, Jan. 4, 1909; Indianapolis Board of Trade, January, 1909; Boston Chamber of Commerce, Jan. 8, 1909; New Orleans Progressive Union, January, 1909; National Boot & Shoe Manufacturers' association, Jan. 1909; Board of Trade of Chicago, Jan. 8, 1909; Merchants' association of York, Jan. 10, 1909; Bristol, Virginia-Tennessie Board of Trade, Jan. 1909; National Shoe Wholesalers' association of the United States, Jan. 14, 1909; American Hardware and Cutlery association, Jan. 16, 1909; Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, Jan. 14, 1909; Manufacturers' and Merchants' association of Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 14, 1909; Philadelphia Board of Trade, Jan. 15, 1909; San Antonio, Tex., Business Men's club, Jan. 18, 1909; Retail Merchants' association of Richmond, Va., Jan. 21, 1909; Battle Creek Industrial association, January, 1909; Business Men's association of Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 1909; Columbus, O., Board of Trade, Jan. 15, 1909; National Association of Wool Manufacturers, Jan. 15, 1909; Commercial club, Dec. 7, 1908; Indianapolis Manufacturers' association, January, 1909; Columbus, O., Board of Trade, Jan. 15, 1909; National Association of Wool Manufacturers, Jan. 15, 1909; Commercial club, Dec. 7, 1908; Indianapolis Manufacturers' and Shippers' association, Dec. 23, 1908; Business Men's club, Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 1909; Baltimore Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, Feb. 4, 1909; St. Louis Commercial club, Jan. 30, 1909.

MR. CUTCHEON DISCUSSES POLITICS AND POTATOES OF SOUTHERN IDAHO

O. E. McCutcheon, a prominent attorney of Idaho Falls, Ida., who two years ago in the Idaho legislature distinguished himself in a number of respects in the senate, principally by so faithfully championing the cause of the potato, is now in the interests of the women of the state that he became known by the women voters all over southern Idaho as "the potato man." He is visiting in Salt Lake City for a few days. He was a member of the Idaho house this year and said yesterday that he was "down here to rest up. The last session of the legislature in Boise was a strenuous one and he indicated that the rest was necessary."

"I was very well satisfied with the work we accomplished this last session," said McCutcheon. "It was a much different body from the one of two years ago, and the Republicans managed to enact most of the laws promised in the party's pledges." He smiled reminiscently, and the reporter took a long chance in guessing what he was thinking about and suggested:

"Which, you are thinking, was a whole lot more than the Idaho legislature did two years ago?"

"Yes," admitted Mr. McCutcheon. "I was very well satisfied with the work we accomplished this last session. It was a much different body from the one of two years ago, and the Republicans managed to enact most of the laws promised in the party's pledges."

"What do you consider was the best piece of legislation that came through the mill up in your state this year?" was asked.

"We ground out several good measures, but there was one that made a particular hit with me. It was a law that had to do with the potato. It was a law that had to do with the potato. It was a law that had to do with the potato."

ATTORNEY FOR HUGH MEYERS HAS NEW VERSION OF BARNETT MURDER

While acting in the capacity of counsel for Hugh Meyers, the crippled youth charged with complicity in the murder of John C. Barnett, in the American House, Attorney William Dunn is also enacting the role of detective in his client's interests and makes the statement that he has unearthed valuable evidence which he believes will go far toward clearing Meyers.

From both sides of the case the death of Flo Richardson, the colored woman, has assumed greater importance in the eyes of the public. The Richardson woman made a statement to the police that she had seen Meyers in the room at the time of the murder, and that at that time Barnett and two other men were in the room. She also told of how Meyers had come out of the room, walked to his cot, where he was sleeping, and returned to the room. This statement of the woman, corroborated, it is understood, by the her declaration, went far to refute the story told by Meyers that he had retired to his hall cot before 8 o'clock that evening.

Field Secretary Addresses Men's Meeting at Y. M. C. A.

Bruno Hobbs of New York, field secretary of the Y. M. C. A., spoke to a large crowd of men and boys in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium yesterday afternoon. His subject was "The Unity of the Bible," and he related some remarkable instances which showed that the Bible was composed of different parts, and that it was precisely the same number of times in Genesis and Revelations, the first and last books of the Bible.

Concluding his address, he said:

"It is remarkable that this unity should exist in a book written throughout centuries and by nearly different men. Yet still there is not an unsatisfied desire of the soul which this great book will not gratify. That God is love is the greatest revelation that we have, and if we lead a life of righteousness, cleanse ourselves from sin and enjoy the fullness of the grace of God we shall come to that which will always satisfy."

ASKS PRICE OF LOCATE HUSBAND

Mrs. Brumback Accuses Him of Kidnaping Their Four Children.

While lying on a sickbed in Denver, and laboring under the fear that her four children, two little daughters and two boys, have been kidnaped by their father, Mrs. Daisy Brumback, until recently residing at 125 West Third South street, has written a piteous appeal to the Salt Lake police that they assist her in locating the errand husband, L. G. Brumback, and the four children.

The letter from Mrs. Brumback states that she went to Denver from Salt Lake some three weeks ago to attend to some business on behalf of herself and at her husband's request. It had been understood before her departure that the children were to be placed in the care of the St. Ann's orphanage during her absence, and that she was to be advised at least every day or two regarding their condition.

She states in her letter that since her arrival in Denver she has not heard a word from them; that several letters addressed to her husband remain unanswered; that she has learned that the children have been unable to learn anything whatever regarding the whereabouts of either the husband or the children. She also states that it was the understanding that the husband was to send a ticket for her when she was ready to return to Salt Lake, and that he has not only failed to do this, but also to send her any means of support, although she is now lying ill in the care of a sister.

She asks that Mr. Brumback be arrested, if found, on the charge of kidnaping.

Inquiry at 125 West Third South street, where the Brumbacks lived until recently, brought out the fact last night that since her arrival Mrs. Brumback left for Denver, Mr. Brumback informed the landlady, Mrs. Maggie Smith, that his wife had frozen her feet. Mrs. Brumback, who he would give up the rooms they had been occupying. He intimated that the children would be placed in the St. Ann's orphanage, but it could not be learned from there definitely last night whether the children had been received or not.

The police department is endeavoring to locate Mr. Brumback and the children, but so far has been unable to do so.

COUPLE BEREFT OF SEVEN CHILDREN IN TWO YEARS

Death has left an unusual trail in the household of John Byron of Murray, claiming within the past two years seven children, four of whom being taken away since January of this year.

In January and February of this year two of the younger boys of the family died from pneumonia. Last Thursday a daughter, 2 years old, died from the same disease, and was buried in the Murray cemetery Saturday. Yesterday Ellen, 4 years of age, died, the victim of the same complaint.

The deaths tell the pathetic story of the loss of an entire family of children, after the years of rearing and caring for them. The couple are now left alone, bowed in the grief of seeing their last child taken from them.

The remains of Mrs. Ellen, the last of the children, are lying in the C. W. Banks mortuary, and the interment will take place Tuesday.

MR. ROBINSON SAYS HE IS CLEAR OF ENTANGLEMENT

Declares He Never Saw Any Evidence of a Liquor Deal in the House.

Now that the session of the legislature is ended, the members are rapidly returning to their various homes to take up the pursuits so long neglected in the interests of lawmaking. Yesterday saw the general exodus of probably four-fifths of the out-of-town members, chief among them being President Gardner of the senate and Speaker Robinson of the house of representatives.

Speaker Robinson, before leaving, said: "I wish to state that I have never seen any evidence of it in the house, nor have I been approached by anyone for their agents in any manner whatsoever. Neither have I, during the time of our session, attended causes secret meetings, nor any invited affair where attendance might be construed as an evidence of willingness to listen to propositions from any one interested."

ELDER ARMSTRONG TALKS TO LATTER-DAY SAINTS

Returned Missionary Discusses Conditions in Australia—Tithes Increasing in Ensign Stake.

The quarterly conference of the Ensign stake was held yesterday. In the morning a meeting was held in the Assembly hall, at which President Richard W. Young gave his report, which showed a number of interesting statistics regarding the work of the church in that stake. Services were held in the tabernacle in the afternoon, and in the evening the people met in the various ward meeting houses.

President Young presided at the afternoon services at the tabernacle. His few introductory remarks were followed by talks from Elder William Armstrong, who has recently returned from a three years' mission to Australia, during which he was accompanied by his wife and daughter. He talked on the work in that mission field, of the successes and failures, and of the influence of the distribution of Mormon literature in that country. Following him, Apostle Elmer L. Goshen related some of the statistics given in President Young's report and commented on them.

From this report, said Apostle Clawson, "we see that the tithes have increased 25 per cent in the last five years, and during the last year they have still continued to come in better, being an increase of 12 per cent over the previous year. This shows that the people are becoming more firm in their belief of this great law given by God to the church, which brings blessings upon us. I congratulate the people of the Ensign stake of Zion on the work that is being done in their stake."

E. L. Halliday was the last speaker, concluding by saying: "It is the greatest gift that God has given me to know what little I do of this religion that God has restored on earth and to know that I have an ever-increasing knowledge of it. The Latter-day Saints are a practical people, and we are advancing until we are no longer charged with being an ignorant people, but are considered an educated people. Good in men what Mormonism appeals to and evil is what it disdains."

RESEARCH AT UNIVERSITY.

Professor Merrill Corrects Statement Made in Sunday Herald.

The attention of The Herald has been called to an inadvertent statement appearing in an article in yesterday morning's Herald regarding the "New Administration Building for the University." In referring to the present cramped quarters of the university it was said: "The student organizations have no rooms, and it is impossible to carry on research work in any of the sciences."

In order that there may be no misapprehension, Joseph F. Merrill, director of the state school of mines, asks that this erroneous statement be corrected. The university probably have not all the room really desirable at the university, yet research work in mining, metallurgy, mechanics, hydraulics, chemistry and
